Antarctic Whalers Denounce Japs For Unfair Practices

CAPETOWN, SOUTH AFRICA—Advance parties from Antarctic whaling grounds arriving here allege unfair practices on the part of two Japanese expeditions authorized by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander of the Allied forces in the Pacific.

The Norwegians in particular assert that Japanese methods have not changed since pre-war days. It is traditional courtesy in Antarctic whaling to refrain from poaching on another nation's chosen hunting grounds, but the Norwegian factory ship Thorshammer found Japanese whalers in its immediate vicinity.

Because the expeditions already have caught almost a full complement of 16,000 "blue whale units" authorized by international agreement, the Antarctic whalers are turning north before the official close of the season. It is estimated that the total catch will slightly exceed last year's and possibly reach 2½ million barrels of oil, worth approximately 120 million dollars.

In addition, for the first time in history whalemeat is being shipped north in large quantities. One British refrigerator ship has nearly 4,000 tons to supplement rations in Britain.

Organic Matter Will Aid Work of Soil Bacteria

A single ounce of soil contains 50 million living bacteria, according to R. C. Thomas of the Ohio agricultural experiment station.

These bacteria can help or harm the crops, depending on the kind of bacteria. The good kind rot the organic matter, release plant nutrients and help build soil structure. The harmful kind cause plant diseases.

The good kind can be aided and the harmful kind eliminated by adding organic matter to the soil. To get this organic matter, according to Middle West Soil Improvement committee, return all possible animal manures to the soil; put back all crop residues and grow deep-rooted legumes regularly in the rotation and feed them generously with fertilizer carrying phosphate and potash.

New Strain of Corn Withstands Drouth

Guatemala Crossbreed Also Resists Root Rot

Possibility of producing corn that would withstand root rot and other diseases as well as prolonged dry spells appealed to Earl E. May and Iowa State college officials.

Knowing that Guatemala had been producing corn for more than 2,000 years in an isolated region, which had resulted in a highly inbred strain which could withstand dry spells as well as certain diseases and pests, Iowa research workers collected

Jim Moore, KMA, and Enrique Salas inspecting Guatemala corn field.

1,200 varieties of corn from Central America.

Now Guatemala - U. S. crossbred corn has been tested at Ames, Iowa. The new corn outyielded three commonly used U.S. hybrids as much as 25 bushels to the acre. While the Midwest varieties withered and died during hot weather, the Guatemala-U.S. crossbreed remain in full ears.

The tests are to be continued, but college officials believe that early results give promise of a new strain that will withstand long dry and hot spells in any part of the United States. James Moore, K.M.A. station, reports that work in Guatemala has been entirely successful and he believes that the new corn soon will be grown on many farms in the United States.

Court Orders Safe Cracker To Pay For Damage To Vault

NEW YORK.—In addition to paying his debt to society by serving time in prison, a safe cracker must pay an insurance company for damage he did to a vault and safe, a state supreme court jury ruled.

The amount is $312—including interest—and it will be easy for the convict, Stanley Patrek, 33, to pay. He has $15,000 in bank accounts, Justice James B. M. McNally noted.

Patrek, who pleaded his own case, contended he was not liable to pay the Aetna Casualty and Surety company which insured the safe, because he was acquitted of burglary when he was convicted of grand larceny.

He is serving from 15 to 20 years in Clinton prison at Dannemora for the theft of $15,200 from the Yonkers, N. Y., Savings and Loan association in 1945. Most of the money was recovered after Patrek and a companion were arrested.

Daytonians Solve Mystery Of Green-Colored Rainfall

DAYTON, O.—The mystery of Dayton's green rain is solved.

The color came from a junk heap where Robert Gradsky had dumped a large quantity of fluorescein, commonly known as "sea marking." The powder is used on life rafts to color large areas of the sea to attract rescuers.

How did it get on porches and umbrellas? One explanation said the powder had been blown onto trees, then washed off.

THE COST OF MEDICAL CARE

★ That the cost of medical care has risen, no one can deny. But the rise has not been out of proportion to the general advance in the cost of living. At the same time the quality of medical service has been immeasurably improved.

Consider that today your physician has invested from eight to ten years and about ten thousand dollars in his education alone. He has no chance to earn until he is twenty-six or twenty-seven years old. He must have an office in a good neighborhood, good equipment, a car, good clothes.

Pharmacy, too, has stepped up its standards. Almost every state now requires four years of college and a year or two of practice before registration. All this adds up to better medical service for you.

Doctor Calls Shoe Box Baby's Ride a Miracle

PORTLAND, ME.—The amazing survival of a one-pound, fifteen-ounce boy, who was carried in a shoe box during a hectic twenty-two mile automobile ride from a Cornish logging camp, was described as a near-miracle by the physician who delivered him.

Dr. Anthony Dibiaso of Cornish, who said the boy was a six and one-half-month premature child, declared:

"The chances for a live birth in such an instance are one in 100,000. The fact that the baby lived through that trip is truly remarkable."

Night-Lifer Aims for Home But Misses by Two Doors

BARTLESVILLE OKLA.—A Bartlesville man awoke, walked into his front room en route to the doorstep for his morning paper and found a stranger on the floor in front of the fireplace, sound asleep.

The man obligingly took a blanket from his bed, laid it over the stranger, and read his paper.

When the man awoke, he rubbed his eyes and said:

"Oo-ee-w! I feel awful! Where am I?"

"You're not at home," his host replied.

The dazed intruder found he lived two doors away.

"I'll never touch it again," he told his neighbor.

High School Chatter . . .

Hi Folks!

Well, school will soon be out. It will be a glad day for some of us and a sad one for the others.

The S. C. A. election went off beautifully. We were sorry we had to turn down some people who wanted to vote because they had not registered. As in the last election there were two voting precincts, and a large majority of the students voted. We know you've been waiting to hear who won the election and so here are the names:

President, Dick Marks

Vice-president, Joyce Christian

Secretary and Treasurer, Virginia Carter

Reporter, Alfred Ray Gordon.

A very impressive candle light service was held last Wednesday in chapel when the new officers were installed.

Did you hear a loud explosion the other day up here? We haven't quite figured out if Jerry just likes experimenting in chemistry or if he was really trying to blow up the school.

Some of the Seniors could take a lesson from Sonny Martin. We understand he was visiting his future alma mater last week-end. Bet some of the Seniors wished they had thought about theirs sooner.

We would like to extend our deepest sympahty to Mrs. Boney in the loss of her husband.

The Garden Club had a very pretty flower show in the cafeteria last Saturday. We hope everyone noticed the flower arrangements of the Junior Garden Club in Miss Williams' room.

Poppy Day Sales Planned

The American Legion Auxiliary will commemorate Poppy Day first in preparation for Memorial Day. On Wednesday, May 26, the members will start to sell the bright red poppies that were made by disabled veterans and purchased from them.

Through this little red flower the heroes will be remembered. Some who came back may have brought bodies which are afflicted. To these, in coordinating their fingers in the process of making poppies, self-confidence and hope return and the spirit is sustained. A primary purpose of the poppy program is to give them employment.

There are the memories of loved ones, who had faith in the future of America and who carried the torch of that faith. Those we honor by wearing the poppy of remembrance.

The contributions dropped in the boxes of the volunteer workers are the principal source of support of the Auxiliary's continuous rehabilitation and child welfare work.
